Dear Gottlieb:

I should have answered your letter long ago, but I am still being troublrd with my boils, and between them and moving I am really not much.

I do wish we could have had a talk. I am sorry we did not get together when we planned that time. It is very hard to get view points over through the mail.

About Satchell, I plan to ask the members if they wont try and get the cash I paid Gus for him back from Wilkinson. Regardless of trades or anything else you know when a person in this baseball paid some hard cash for a ballplayer and just had him taken from him buy plain strength, and the pffending party makes as much money with him as Wilkie did with Satchell, he should at least give us back the cash we paid for him. You know I honestly feel this way, so to ask me to pay for Satchells services is just too much. I feel that I should be getting paid for letting some one else use him.

I guess you fell that your view points are fair the same way I feel mine are. It does seem rediculous that intelligent people cannot come to an aggrement about anything, but after all the whole world is arguing at present.

If we come to Philly any time soon I will look you up. Hope you are well.

Very Truly Yours
